the 1632 series as countries try to block France's attempt to control the New World. While a decent story, I do find the idea of starting mining in the Hudson's Bay area amusing (I've been there twice. The winters are beyond cold. Anyone who would choose to winter there when more desirable climes are available is just silly.

colonization of a large portion of North America had been dominated by one of Europe's small nations instead of, as actually happened, by the great powers of France, Britain and Spain? Specifically, Denmark. In real history, Denmark did have a few small settlements in the Caribbean, but they never amounted to much.
